Second Saturday Downtown Art Stroll Three Rivers Gallery Presents "In My Own Space"

"I take great joy in painting from the heart and allowing each piece to evolve in the art process." - Peggy Hesse

Well known local artist Peggy Hesse has created a compelling new series entitled 'In My Own Space'. Having recently moved to a new home just off the Tchefuncte River, the artist has been inspired to lovingly document her new environment. One cannot help but see the strong emotion expressed through vivid colors as she walks us through her new surroundings. This series marks an exciting change in her work. "Being surrounded by its natural beauty unleashed an outpouring of inspiration from the azalea bounded pathways of the woods to the water lily pond to the dark and tangled edges of the Rattlesnake branch off the Little Tchefuncte. Every season provides it own visual riches. The deeper I look, the more I see and try to depict of colors, textures, endless shapes transformed by the changing light. There is a feeling here of peace, quiet and daily celebration. That is what makes it my own space."

Award winning artist, Peggy Hesse is a graduate of Newcomb College and Tulane University Graduate School. She has worked most of her life in creative fields as artist, interior designer, renovator, builder, and teacher.

'In My Own Space' will run from September 14 - October 5, 2013 at Three Rivers Art Gallery, 333 East Boston Street.

"Bookmarks: Selections From The New Orleans Museum Of Art"

Second Saturday STAA Opening Features 4th Annual NOMA Partnership
 The St. Tammany Art Association is pleased to announce its 4th annual exhibit in partnership with the New Orleans Museum of Art. Made possible by the generous support of the Harry T. Howard Foundation, Gulf Coast Bank & Trust, Achee Signs & Graphic Art and Champagne Beverage Co, this year's exhibit entitled, Bookmarks: Selections from the New Orleans Museum of Art, will feature works on paper by many well-known artists, such as Matisse, Beardsley, Chagall, Roualt & Leger, from NOMA's permanent collection. STAA will host an opening reception during Covington's Second Saturday Art Openings on September 14 at 6:00pm - 9:00pm. The show will be our featured exhibit at STAA during Fall for Art on Saturday, October 12 and will be on display through October 26.

In the 19th century, artist's books, known as livre d'artiste, emerged as a new art form, reaching an apogee during the post-war World War II era. Artists embraced the opportunity to interact with text and also to control the viewing experience through the sequencing of word and image. This one-on-one relationship between the artist and the reader opened new realms of opportunity and possibility for artist and viewer alike. Many artists began to use the physical form of the book as the format for their ideas. Instead of restricting their vision to traditional two-dimensional pages bound together, artists used innovative and unexpected formats and materials to create their "books." The book itself became a place for artists to make work- a book that is not a book, released from the limitations of spines and boards.

For more details, visit www.sttammanyartassociation.org. Schools or community groups interested in touring the exhibit can contact the St. Tammany Art Association at (985)892-8650 or by email at info@sttammanyartassociation.org.

Aubrey Beardsley was an Art Nouveau-era illustrator who contributed the artwork for Oscar Wilde's 'Salome', which premiered in Paris in 1896.

Farmer's Market Recipes

Fresh recipes inspired by ingredients found at the Covington Farmer's Market
Roasted Butternut Squash Spoon Bread

Ingredients:

- 1 large butternut squash
- 2 - 3 medium carrots
- 4 shallots, chopped
- 3 eggs, separated
- 3/4 cups of cornmeal
- 2 cups of buttermilk
- 3 tablespoons of butter
- a few splashes of water
- 1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
- pinches of cayenne & cumin, to taste
- fresh rosemary & thyme

Directions:

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Start by peeling the butternut squash, cutting it in half and de-seeding it. Soak in water for about 5 - 10 minutes, pat dry and place in a baking dish in the oven to roast for about 45 minutes. While the squash is baking, steam the carrots until soft, and set aside. Sauté the shallots in a skillet over medium heat with a tablespoon of butter. Cook until they begin to soften, then add the salt, cayenne, cumin, de-stemmed thyme and most of the rosemary (save some sprigs for garnish). Mix well and turn the heat down to low. Puree the squash and carrots, adding water as needed, to make a smooth (but not runny) paste. Add the buttermilk to the sauteed onions on a low heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until bubbles begin to appear on the rim. Do not boil. Mixture may still curdle. Slowly mix in the cornmeal while stirring to avoid clumping. Once the cornmeal is completely mixed in, remove from heat. In a large mixing bowl combine the cornmeal mix with the puree mix. Add another tablespoon of butter and the egg yolks. You may want to use an electric mixer to ensure everything is mixed thoroughly and smooth. For an extra touch, you can whip up the egg whites and fold them into the batter. Grease a casserole dish with the remaining butter and place the batter here, topped with a sprinkle of fresh grated parmesan. Bake at 375 degrees for about 45 minutes, until the top browns. The inside will still be moist but firm. Serve immediately, topped with a sprig of fresh rosemary.

Final Auditions For "This Stage Of Love" Sept. 14th

The Fuhrmann Performing Arts Society and Center Of Performing Arts (COPA) present an original musical production by Robert Sturcken called "This Stage of LOVE". When a once-famous director wants to get back into the spotlight, his cast learns more than they expected about theater and about themselves as well.

Final auditions will take place Saturday, September 14th at 1 p.m. Those interested in auditioning should be 16 years of age or older and should come prepared to recite a brief monologue and two songs. The monologue should be light and comedic; the songs, one ballad and one up tempo, should be performed a cappella. Auditions will be held at Center Of Performing Arts, 201 N. Columbia St. in Covington.

The show runs November 1 - 3 and 8 - 10 at the Fuhrmann Auditorium in Downtown Covington. The cast of 25 will be directed by Robert Sturcken and co-directed by New Orleans theatre notables Kellan Sigl and Ed Morvant. For more information, contact the COPA office at (985)-727-4638.

At the Center Of Performing Arts, the goal is to provide an environment in which individuals can explore their artistic expression wherever their musical dreams may lead.
